By combining a wide mix of work and study, you'll gain a Level 7 qualification (including a law degree and the SQE exams) and be a fully qualified solicitor.

At RPC, we know that you'll do your best if you're free to be yourself. That's why we only recruit genuine people with a desire to make a difference. It's not essential to have studied law before, but you'll need strong academic results and be able to show that you're a hardworking and motivated team-player with communication skills and meticulous attention to detail to match.
